Princes ANNE Dutches of Monmonth, and Bucclugh, Wife to the most Illustrious and High-born Prince James Duke of Monmonth.

May it please your Grace, those sould as to see the to study

HE favour which Heroick Plays have lately found upon our Theaters, has been wholly deriv'd to them from the countenance and approbation they have received at Court. The most eminent perfons for Wit and Honour in the Royal Circle baving fo far owned them, that they have judg'd no way fo fit as Verfe to entertain a Noble Audience, or to express a noble paffron. And amongst the rest which have been written in this kind, they have been so indulgent to this Poem, as to allow it no inconfiderable place. Since, therefore, to the Court I owe its fortune on the Stage; for being now more publickly exposed in Print; I bumbly recommend it to your Grace's Protection, who by all knowing perfons are esteem'd a Principal Ornament of the Court. But though the rank which you hold in the Royal Family, might direct the Eyes of a Poet to you, yet your Beauty and Goodness detain and fix them. High Objects, tis true, attract the fight; but it looks up with pain on Craggy Rocks and Barren Mountains, and continues not intent on any object, which is wanting in shades and greens to entertain it. Beauty, in Courts, is so necessary to the young, that those who are without it, seem to be there to no other purpose than to wait on the triumphs of the fair; to attend their their motions in obscurity, as the Moon and Stars do the Sini by day: or, at best, to be the refuge of these hearts which others have despised; and, by the immorthiness of both, to give and take a miserable comfort. But as needful as beauty is, Virtue and Honour are yet more: the reign of it without their support is unfafe and short like that of Tyrants. Every Sun which looks on Beauty mastes it; and, when once it is decaying, the repairs of Art are of as short continuance, as the after Spring when the Sun is going farther off. This, Madam, is its ordinary Fate, but yours which is accompanied by Virtue, is not subject to that common destiny. Your Grace has not only a long time of Youth in which to flourish, but you have likewife found the way by an untainted prefervation of your Honour, to make that perishable good more lasting. And if Beau. ty, like Wines could be preferv'd by being mix'd and embodied with others of their own natures, then your Grace's would be immortal, since no part of Europe can afford a parallel to your Noble Lord, in masculine Beauty, and in goodliness of stape. To receive the bleffings and prayers of mankind, you need only to be feen together : The are ready to conclude that you are a pair of Angels fent below to make Virtue amiable in your perfons, or to fit to Poets when they would pleasantly instruct the Age, by drawing goodness in the most perfect and alluring shape of Nature. But though Beauty be the Theme, on which Par ets love to dwell. I must be forc'd to quit it as a private praise, fince you have deferved those which are more publick. For Goodness and Humanity, which shine in you, are Virtues which concern Mankind; and by a certain kind of interest all people agree in their commendation, because the profit of them may extend to many Tis fo much your inclination to do good, that their you.

you flay not to be asked a which wan approach for nigh the Deity, that Humane Nature is not capable of a nearet Tis my Happiness that Lean testifie this Vertue of your Grace's by my own experience; since I have so great an aversion from solliciting Court-Favours, that I on ready to look on these as very bold, who dare grow rich there without defert. But I beg your Grace's pardon for affaming this Ventue of Modefty to my felf. which the Sequel of this Discourse will no may justifie. For in this Address I have already quitted the Character of a modest Man, by prefenting you this Poem as an acknowledgment, which stands in need of your protection; and which ought no more to be esteem'd a Present, than it is accounted Bounty in the Poor, when they bestow a Child on some wealthy Friend, who will better breed it up. Off-springs of this Nature are like to be so numerous with me, that I must be forc'd to send some of them abroad; only this is like to be more fortunate than his Brothers, because I have landed him on an hospitable Shore. Under your Patronage Montezuma hopes he is more safe than in his Native Indies? and therefore comes to throw himself at your Grace's Feet; paying that homage to your Beauty, which he refus'd to the violence of his Conquerors. He begs only that when he shall relate his Sufferings, you will consider him as an Indian Prince, and not expect any other Eloquence from his simplicity, than what his griefs have furnish'd him withal. His Story is, perhaps, the greatest which was ever represented in a Poem of this nature'; (the Action of it including the Discovery and Conquest of a New World.) In it I have neither wholly follow'd the Truth of the History, nor altogether left it: but have taken all the Liberty of a Poet, to add, alter, or diminish, as I thought might best conduce to the beautifying of my Work.

The Epiftle Dedicatory.

It being not the business of a Poet to represent Historical Truth, but Probability. But I am not to make the justification of this Poem, which I wholly leave to your Grace's mercy. Tis an irregular Piece, if compar'd with many of Corneilles, and, if I may make a Judgment of it, written with more Flame than Art; in which it represents the mind and intentions of the Author, who is with much more Zeal and Integrity, than Defign and Artifice,

Connexion of the Indian Emperour to the Indian Queen.

HE Conclusion of the Indian Queen, (part of which Poem was writ by me) left little matter for another Story to be built on, there remaining but two of the considerable Characterialive, (viz.) Montezuma and Orazia: theretipen the Author of this, thought it necessary to produce new persons from the old ones, and considering the late Indian Queen, before she lov'd Montezuma, liv'd in claudestine Marriage with her General Traxalla; from those two, he has rais'd a Son and two Daughters, supposed to be left young Orphans at their Death: On the other side, he has given to Montezuma and Orazia, two Sons and a Daughter; all now supposed to be grown up to Mens and Womens Estate; and their Mother Orazia (for whom there was no surther use in the story) lately dead.

So that you are to imagine about Twenty years elapfed fince the Coronation of Montezuma; who, in the Truth of the History, was a great and glorious Prince; and in whole time happened the Discovery and Invasion of Mexico by the Spaniards; under the conduct of Hirnando Correz, who, joyning with the Tlaxcallan-Indians, the inveterate Enemies of Montezuma, wholly subverted that flourishing Empire; the Conquest of which, is the Subject of this Dramatique Poem.

I have neither wholly followed the story, not varied from it; and, as near as I could, have traced the Native simplicity and ignorance of the Indians, in relation to European Customes: The Shipping, Armour, Horses, Swords, and Guns of the Spaniards, being as new to them, as their Habits and their Language were to the Christians.

The difference of their Religion from ours, I have taken from the Story it felf; and that which you find of it in the first and fifth Acts couching the sufferings and constancy of Assectation his Opinions, I have only illustrated, not alter'd from those who have written of it.

Guy. More strange than what your wonder can invent.

The object I could first distinctly view
Was tall straight Trees which on the Waters flew, Wings on their fides instead of leaves did grow, Which gather'd all the breath the Winds could blow: And at their Roots grew flowing Pallaces,

And at their Roots grew floating Pallaces,
Whose out blow'd Bellies cut the yielding Seas.

Mont. What divine Monfters, O ye gods, were thefe:

That float in air and flye upon the Seas! Came they alive or dead upon the shore?

Guy. Alas, they liv'd too fure, I heard them roar: All turn'd their fides, and to each other spoke, I faw their words break out in Fire and Smoke. Sure 'tis their Voice that thunders from on high, Or these the younger Brothers of the Sky. Deaf with the noise I took my hasty slight,

My secret wishes would my choice decide. But open Justice bends to neither fide.

Odm. Justice already does my right approve, If him who loves you most, you most should love. My Brother poorly from your aid withdrew, But I my Father left to succour you.

Guy. Her Country she did to her felf prefer, Him who fought best, not who defended her; Since the her interest for the Nations wav'd, Then I who fav'd the King, the Nation fav'd; You aiding her, your Country did betray, I aiding him, did her Commands obev.

Odm. Name it no more, in Love there is a time.

When dull Obedience is the greatest Crime;

She to her Countries use, resign'd your Sword,

And you, kind Lover, took her at her word;

You did your Duty to your Love prefer,

Seek your Reward from Duty, not from her.

Guy. In acting what my Duty did require,
'Twas hard for me to quit my own desire,
That fought for her which when I did subdue,
'Twas much the easier Task I left for you.

Alib. Odmar a more than common Love has shown,
And Guyomar's was greater, or was none;
Which I should chuse some God direct my Brest.
The certain Good, or the uncertain Best;
I cannot chuse, you both dispute in vain,
Time and your future Acts must make it plain;
First raise the Siege, and set your Country free,
I not the Judge, but the Reward will be.

To them, Enter Montezuma talking with Almeria and Orbellan,

Mont. Madam, I think with reason I extol
The Vertue of the Spanish General;
When all the Gods our Ruine have foretold,
Yet generously he does his Armes withhold,
And offering Peace, the first Conditions make.

Alm. When Peace is offer'd, 'tis too late to take;
For one poor loss to stoop to Terms like those,
Were we o'rcome what could they worse impose?
Go, go, with homage your proud Victors meet,
Go lye like Dogs beneath your Masters Feet,
Go and beget them Slaves to dig their Mines,
And groan for Gold which now in Temples shines;
Your shameful Story shall record of me,
The Men all crouch'd, and lest a Woman free.

Guy. Had I not fought, or durst not fight again,
I my suspected Counsel should refrain:
For I wish Peace, and any Terms prefer
Before the last Extremities of War.
We but exasp rate those we cannot harm,
And Fighting gains us but to dye more warm:

Enter Montezuma, Odmar, Guyomar, Almeria.

Mont. It moves my wonder that in two days space. This early Famine spreads so swift a pace. Odm. 'Tis, Sir, the general cry, nor feems it strange, The face of plenty should so swiftly change; This City never felt a Siege before, But from the Lake receiv'd its daily store, Which now thut up, and Millions crowded here, Famine will foon in multitudes appear, Mont. The more the number, still the greater shame. Alm. What if some one should seek immortal Fame By ending of the Siege at one brave blow?

Mont. That were too happy !

Alm. - Yet it may be fo,

What if the Spanish General should be slain? Guy. Just Heaven I hope does other ways ordain. Mont. If flain by Treason, I lament his death.

Enter Orbellan and whilpers his Sister. Odm. Orbellan feems in hast and out of breath. Mont. Orbellan, welcome, you are early here,

A Bridegrooms hast does in your looks appear,

[Almeria afide to her Brothers.

Alm. Betray'd! no, 'twas thy Cowardife, and Fear, He had not scap'd with Life had I been there; But since so ill you act a brave design, Keep close your shame, Fate makes the next turn mine.

Alm. He found more Love than he deserv'd, 'tis true,

And that it feems is lucky too to you ; Your Fathers Folly took a head-strong course,

But I'll rule yours, and teach you Love by force. Enter Mellenger.

Arm, Arm, O King, the Enemy comes on,

A fharp Affault already is begun

Their Murdering Guns play fiercely on the Walls. Odm. Now Rival, let us run where honour calls. Guy. I have discharg'd what grantende did owe.

And the brave Spaniard is again my Foe. [Exeunt Odmar, and Guvomar,

Mont. Our Walls are high, and multitudes defend: Their vain attempt must in their ruine end;

The Nuptials with my presence shall be grac'd.

Alib. At least but stay till the Affaule be paft. Alm. Sifter, in vain you urge him to delay,

The King has promis'd, and he that obey.

Enter Second Mellenger.

From feveral parts the Enemy's repell'd, One only quarter to th' Affault does vield.

Enter Third Mellenger.

Some Foes are enter'd, but they are fo few, They only Death, not Victory purfue,

Orb. Hark, hark, they hout! From Vertues rules I do too meanly fwerve,

I by my Courage will your Love deferve. Mont. Here in the heart of all the Town I'll stay :

Sure I am grown distracted in my mind,
That joy this Grant should bring I cannot sind:
The one, denying, vex'd my Soul before;
And this, obeying, has disturb'd me more:
The one with grief, and slowly did refuse,
The other, in his Grant, much haste did use:
—He us'd too much—and granting me so soon,
He has the merit of the Gist undone:
Methought with wondrous ease, he swallowed down
His forseit Honour, to betray the Town:
My inward Choice was Guyomar before,
But now his Verrue has confirm'd me more—
—I rave, I rave, for Odmar will obey
And then my Promise must my Choice betray.
Fantastick Honour, thou hast stram'd a toy!
Thy self, to make thy Love thy Vertues spoil.

See how on every Bough the Birds express
In their sweet Notes their happiness.
They all enjoy, and nothing spare;
But on their Mother Nature lay their care:
Why then should Man, the Lord of all below;
Such troubles chuse to know;
As none of all his Subjects undergo?

Hark, hark, the Waters fall, fall; And with a murmuring found Dash, dash, upon the ground, to gentle slumbers call;

After the Song, two Spaniards arife and dance a Saraband with Caffaniera's: at the end of which, Guyomar and his Indians enter, and e're the Spaniards can recover their Swords, seize them.

O all and fingular in this full meeting, Ladies and Gallants, Phoebus fends me greeting. To all his Sons by what e're Title known, Whether of Court, of Coffee-House, or Town; From his most mighty Sons, whose confidence Is plac'd in lofty found, and humble sence, Ev'n to his little Infants of the Time Who Write new Songs, and trust in Tune and Rhime. Be't known that Phoebus (being daily griev'd To see good Plays condemn'd, and bad receiv'd,) Ordains your judgment upon every Cause, Henceforth be limited by wholesome Laws. He first thinks fit no Somettier advance. His censure, farther than the Song or Dance. Your Wit Burlesque may one step higher climb, And in his Sphere may judge all Doggrel Rhime: All proves, and moves, and Loves, and Honours too: All that appears high sence, and scarce is low. As for the Coffee-Wits he says not much, Their proper bus ness is to Dann the Dutch:

For

For the great Dons of Wit ---Phoebus gives them full priviledge alone
To Damn all others, and cry up their own.
Last, for the Ladies, 'tis Apollo's will,
They should have power to save, but not to kill:
For Love and He long since have thought it fit,
Wit live by Beauty, Beauty raign by Wit.
